To his elated brain, and he is said to have been a rather stupid man, it seemed the only way out of his troubles. Doubtless, if he had been left alone, he would not only have murdered Mrs. Irwin, but would have shot himself. He was perfectly familiar with the house, and when she fell asleep last night he crept into her room and, bending over her as she lay asleep, he thought he could do his work with one blow of the keen razor which work with one blow of the keen razor which he held in his hand. The room was very dark, and when he made the first cut he missed his aim at her throat and struck her squarely on the mouth, cutting the cheeks on each side. Then, as she rose, he cut her again—this time striking her throat. If she had not been so large and fat, he would have accomplished his object; but, as it was, he only cut the flesh and fatty covering of the throat. Instead of becoming unconscious, as at first reported, after a struggle with Weiss, she ran to the window and began to scream for help, and he ran off to the garret. Mrs. Irwin told them there was a lamp on the mantel, and after they lit it she took it from them and held it up beside her face, and said: "See how I'm cut; I will die." Then she told the officers that the man who did it was up in the garret. They hurried up, but Weiss heard them coming and jumped out of the window to the roof of a porch, and from there to a shed, then ran across two other sheds and leaped down into the yard of Mr. David Wilson where told the officers where he was. When Officer Mulvihill attempted to break in the door he was fired on. Six shots were fired in all, and the door of the outhouse shows that five of these were fired from the outside, and he other from the inside. As to whether all the five shots were fired by Officer M'Kenna, no one seems to know. When the door was broken open Weiss was found lying dead on the floor with his head in a bucket, which was nearly full of blood. The ball which killed him went into his mouth without touching his lips or teeth, and passing around his neck it passed into his spinal column. Officer M'Kenna was arrested and placed in the twelfth ward station, and this morning placed in the central station. As he has a child dying, he was allowed to go home under nce. The officers who were present at the shooting refuse to talk about it. Mrs. Irwin is said by the doctors at the West ennsylvania hospital this evening, to be improving, but it is scarcely possible she can survive. A dispatch was received here yesterday morning from Mr. D. W. C. No doubt the railroad company are and have een for some time past laboring under many lifficulties, and all owing to the fact that nearly every station between Memphis and with the M'Kenzie having established quaran-tine restrictions, thereby preventing their trains stopping at any of their stations. There are, however, nearly thirty thousand Memphians away from the city to show that Memphis city government will not permit the | a daily mail is a matter of great importance, many of them having friends and relatives ere, and many of them being among our eading business men. Fatal Fight Over a Game of Cards-Barret Meore Calls Bill Talifero, and Sees his Heart with a Knife.

MADISONVILLE, KY., August 1.—A ter-ible tragedy occurred at Morton's Gap, in this county, at two o'clock this morning, in which the assassin cut his victim's heart in twain with a large, ugly-looking pocket-knife. nformation of the affair received at this place during the day points to the following facts: On Thursday the murderer and his victim met and engaged in a game of cards for money, during which Talifero won from Moore three dollars. At this time no trouble occurred and the two men separated, aparently good friends. Bo'h men met at a I last night, when Talifero was approached Mcore, who insisted that the former should e him (Moore) a chance to win the money sented, and about two o'clock sat down to a table to play. They had not finished the first game, however, before a dispute arose, which soon resulted in blows, and before the men could be separated Moore drew his knife and plunged it into Talifero's heart. The wounded man exclaimed: "Oh God, I'm cut," staggered back, fell to the floor, and died instantly. It is reported here to-night that Moore had surrendered himself to the officers and would be brought here and placed in jail, but up to a late hour to-night the officers had not made their appearance. The murdered man is said to have been a quiet, peaceable and honest citizen, and leaves a wife and

END OF A RELIGIOUS QUARREL.

Rev. Father O'Keefe, of Callan, Ireland, Makes his Submission to the Church After More than Six Years Strife.

DUBLIN, July 12 .- The name of Father Keefe, the parish priest of Callan, in the ounty of Kilkenny, is not a stranger to the olumns of the Herald. Many of its readers, upon seeing the name again, after a long in-terval, will not fail to be reminded of the great cause celebre of six years ago, in which an Irish parish priest had the courage to bring into the courts a cardinal, a prince of the church, and while impeaching his conduct to vindicate strenuously the rights of the priesthood against the encroachments of the episcopate. Both before that memorable suit and since Father O'Keefe has fought vigorous legal battles in defense of his claims. It has been a very long story, a tangled skein, not only intricate and puzzling, but showing very various hues according to the point from which it was looked at. But it is now all over. The angry controversy is set at rest—forever, it may be hoped, although where Father O'Keefe is concerned it will not do to be oversanguine. At any rate, he has "made his submission" to his bishop, has retracted his unpalatable doctrines, and has declared his regret for his insubordination. This has been done in a linear three controls and the principal remedy will then be the CUTICURA, with the CUTICURA SOAP, and such use of the RESOLVENT as is suggested by the following conditions: In all skin and Scalp Diseases, when the skin is hot and dry, the blood feverish, the liver turple, the bowels constitution has been shattered by Malsrial and Anti-Periodic Fevers and Detilitating Diseases, always take the RESOLVENT while using the CUTICURA. A cure thus made will be permanent and satisfactory. doctrines, and has declared his regret for his insubordination. This has been done in a formal document of great explicitness, and its publication in the press now is only a promulgation of what was already known in we informed circles for some time past. The following is an exact copy of the document, which was written by his own hands:

My Lord Bishor-1 desire earnestly e reconciled with my bishop and the church I express my sincere regret for all the scan the last ten years. He was not destined to be even as obstinate as Dollinger, perhaps because circumstances were much for him. In all ages the argumentum ad crumenam, particularly in the form of has been found very effective. And reliable reports represent the paster of Callan as being now for many months reduced to the dires straits. Has the origin of this great ecclesiastical insurrection dropped out of men's minds? It may well have done so. Fatne Robert O'Keefe was a clever man, well educated, learned, vain of his powers and his acquirements. He had a smattering of the modern "ologies," and thought would be well if the rising generations of boys and girls were trained in some of those And be set an example by setting up a school of his own in his town of Callan and becoming the head schoolmaster him self. He got into some quarrel with a flattering. He got into some quarrel with a convent of nuns which was within his pastoral charge, and another priest had for peace sake to take up his duties. Soon afterward he proposed to introduce some French nuns, but the bishop forbade it, and upon O'Keefe's remonstrating rather hotly the bishop said something to this effect: "You would be a something to the something to something to this effect: "You would be ing door. To bring the bishop before a civil court to answer a charge arising directly out of dealings connected with ecclesiastical affairs is a serious offense according to the canon law. The bishop forthwith got "square" by declaring O'Keefe excommunicated and suspended him from his paris But this declaration of the bishop, having been made without previous compliance with certain formalities, was itself null and destitute of canonical effect. This O'Keefe, who was a much better canonist than the bishop,

ECZEMA RODENT.

The Cuticura Remedies Succeed where a Consultation of Physicians Fails. MESSRS. WEERS & POTTER—Gentlemen: I have suffered over thirteen years with skin disease in my hands and limbs, causing constant irritation, depriving me of rest and attention to business.

I sought many remedies here and elsewhere, also use of sulphur baths, without permanent cure. Last May a physician called my disease Eczema Rodent—spots appeared on my hands, head, and face, eves became much inflamed and granulated, causing at length impaired sight.

Internal and external remedies were prescribed by a leading physician for six months, was then introduced to another, and a consultation of several leading physicians was had, when a definite plan was decided upon, but all to no purpose.

After following advice for four months without any permanent cure, I bought two bottles of Outleurn Resolvent, two bores of Outleurn, and some Soap,

MALARIA

An Antidote which will cure every variety of Ague, Fever and Ague, and Chills and Fever, and leave no bad trace or disorder in the system, has been discovered by one of America's greatest Chemists. This preparation or principle is known by the name of CLIFFORD'S FEBRIFUGE. Being entirely free from minerals or other deleterious materials, it accomplishes its work without being in the least harmful to the system. This popular remedy differs from all other Ague Cures, in being free from all poisonous effects on the system; it enters into the circulation and destroys all malarious poison, and thus eradicates the disease without producing any of those distressing after-sensations, such as fullness and pain in the head, ringing in the ears and partial deafness. It is a question of importance to all afflicted creatures, wheth er they will be cured of disease by reme dies'which leave a long train of bad aftereffects or hy a medicina the eradicates it. without doing any more harm than that much water. No other preparation known mittent diseases at all comparable with it It enters the circulation and utterly destroys the germs of poison; it will purify and build up the debilitated system in a shorter time, and with more lasting benefit, than any other known remedy. As a Tonic, it acts as an Antiseptic and Blood Purifier, bringing renewed energy and vitality to the body worn down by disease. It is Nature's own remedy for all diseases arising from malarial poison. Palatable, Powerful, Antiperiodle and Tonic, it never falls to cure Fever and Ague, Dumb Chills, Congestive Chills, Bilious Fever, Periodical Neuralgia, and all diseases of malarial origin. The only article known that will eradicate this disease permanently from the system. J. C.
